

KEYS TO A SUCCESSFUL GROUP EVENT AT BREATHE:

- Make sure everyone receives a personal invitation (from the group leader or the group's breathe point person) and is encouraged to attend, even if they can only make a few sessions. (the “per session” fee is $20/session). Make coming to Breathe as important as coming to group, because it really is.
- For the weeks leading up to the festival, have someone from the group share a testimony or story about their experience at previous Breathe festivals.
- Partner with another group to enhance and expand your community camping experience, the only way for people in your group to meet new people is if they are around them. Give it a shot; it's a lot of fun.
- Encourage the group to invite friends/acquaintances who might not otherwise come to church or a church event
- Be continuously on the lookout for people who might not be connected to a group (both in the JH Service and on-site at the festival) and invite them to camp with you, sit with your group at the sessions, etc.
- Make sure someone from your group is coordinating the logistics:

Sleeping arrangements

- Survey the group to see who has tents, how many each tent sleeps, etc.
- Make sure everyone has someone to camp with

Food

- Consider doing group meals (i.e., do lunch & dinner as a group {everyone contribute $$} and everyone is on their own for breakfast)
- For men's/women's groups, consider partnering with another group for meals, campfire-starting, etc.
- Try doing one meal with another group. Make it something cheap and easy but invite some other people over. Nothing says community like free food.

Transportation

- Do an informal survey of the group to identify times when people are able to leave for the festival
- Arrange a meeting place (the church is a good one) and a few departure times and the group can carpool up together

- Promote the Gathering Ground which is a designated area with benches, fire pits & lots of firewood so people can talk, worship, make s'mores and fellowship without concern of disturbing sleeping campers. Invite your worship leader and group members to bring guitars!
